Tagged Starling Flies 300 Miles

Joe Chaplain Breaks into the Limelight Again

"Now that the Hauptmann case is off the front pages it is about time I broke into print again," observed the loquacious Joe Champlain, as he breezed into Jabe Johnson's this morning and the "hot stove league."

"What is it this time, Joe," inquired Jabe. "Another three-legged dog, cow-milking bullfrogs, a brewery, catching fish with a fish-hound, or what?"

"None of them things. This is government wor. The Biological Survey wants me to help make a survey of the starlings. They let some loose in Washington to see how far they would migrate, and derned if they didn't fly right up to my barn."

"Hey, wait a minute, Joe. We can't stand for that. Don't you know birds don't fly north in zero weather?"

"Well, starlings do, and I'll prove it. Here is a tag I took from a dead starling in my barn. Probably froze to death. I saw others with tags around the barn."

Joe produced a little aluminum tag reading, "B228420. Notify Biological Survey, Washington, D. C."

"Notify 'em." shouted Joe. "I'll notify 'em to keep their dern pesky birds in Washington instead of sending them up here to pull up our corn. Why, they are worse than crows. And the government is paying good wages to relief workers to drum the starlings out of the capital by pounding on tin pans and other noise makers. I suppose some of the smart-aleck "Brain Trusters" thought up that one just to further annoy the tax-payers. We have all the starlings we want around here without the biological survey sending us any more of the dirty scavengers. If the govenrment wants to do something to get rid of the starlings why don't it build a big bird sanctuary on some of the wasteland around the capital. Then put the relief workers to trapping birds and freeing them in the enclosure."

As the crow flies — pardon, we mean starling — it is about 300 miles from Washington, D. C., to Woodhull. But starlings are queer birds, and it is possible that the one found here made several detours on the way up.

Nurse Committee Advocates Repeal of Milk Price Fixing

At a meeting of the Steuben County Nurse committee held at Bath, February 1st, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

RESOLVED—That the law which fixes the price of fluid milk delivered to the consumer is largely responsible for less milk being used; that such law benefits no one but the distributor and prevents numerous families from buying a greater quantity or forces them to resort to canned milk, which may be cheaper but has not the value of fresh milk and is not relished by many.

Therefore, if retail competition could exist many children would benefit by having better health because of more milk to drink. That the law and the advertising effort to get people to use more milk is inconsistent with a price fixing which prohibits such purpose. That a copy of this resolution be sent to the N. Y. State Milk Board and to the Department of Health.

Hi-Lights and Shadows of the Week's News

The Supreme Court's gold decision held the spot-light in the news the first of this week. The court by a vote of 5 to 4 decided that private concerns were not obligated to pay off obligations containing the "gold clause" in money of the same value borrowed. Government bonds containing the clause, the court ruled, cannot be paid off on a dollar for dollar basis. This decision will prevent any holders of provate bonds from suing for the value before the Roosevelt dollar became our debased currency. Both the Administration and conservative leaders saw reason to be encouraged by the decision. Buoyed up by the news stocks on the market took an upward surge.

"NOW IS THE TIME——"

The old copy-book phrase used to say, "Now is the time when all good men should come to the aid of their party." A trite phrase, it is true and one which might be mis-leading, IF the party were not worth lending one's aid. Yet all good men in Addison — and women too, SHOULD come to the aid of their party this week on caucus night and see that the right men be nominated for office, whether they be Republicans, or whether they be Democrats.

Both Republicans and Democrats of Addison will hold their party conventions Saturday evening for nomination of candidates to run in the charter election next month. It is always difficult to predict in advance how these village caucuses will shape up. Frequently there is a disposition for the two parties to send delegates to confer and decide if a fusion ticket shall be placed in nomination and endorsed by the opposition bodies. Sometimes both sides cannot agree upon the fusion and separate tickets are placed in the field with the issue fought out on election day.

Two years ago both major parties made an agreeable compromise and nominated a joint ticket which was heartily endorsed by Addison citizens at the polls. The ticket was composed of A. Sisto, Republican for mayor, Russell B. Allen and William Dininny, Democrats, for village trustees, and events which have followed through the two-year tenure of office of this group have amply demonstrated the fact Addison voters were wise in this choice. Through the foresight of Mayor Sisto and his colleagues Addison's business section has undergone the greatest improvement in several decades, and every rsident can look with pride upon this enhanced village. It is understood Mayor Sisto is reluctant to run for the office again, but might be induced to make the sacrifice if the public demand it. Naturally of a progressive nature, Mr. Sisto has other plans which could be worked out during a second term, plans which would greatly benefit every citizen of the village.

The stable citizens of this village, property holders and all public-minded voters should lay everything aside Saturday evening to attend their party caucus. It is believed the Democratic party in Addison would again be willing to endorse Mayor Sisto for the office, if the two party trustees whose terms are expiring, were endorsed by the Republicans. This no time to stage a miniature war in the village over a party scrap. Mayor Sisto and trustees Allen and Dininny should be endorsed for re-election upon a fusion ticket.

That end can be achieved if the stable citizens attend caucus Saturday evening, looking at the situation from the correct viewpoint. "Now is the time when all good men should come to the support of their party."

DECENTRALIZING INDUSTRY

Messrs. Harry Hopkins and Secretary Ickes have been in a huddle over the idea of decentralizing industry. At present the two big money spenders of the New Deal appear to favor moving whole communities of unemployed persons out of the cities into government ready-made villages operating on the subsistence homestead plan. Some 50 of these communities are planned or under construction, but industrial leaders have been shying away from the plan of moving factories into villages made up entirely of persons who come to these places because they are down and out.

Far greater promise seems to be held by Secretary of Commerce Roper's Business Advisory and Planning Council which has recently made public a preliminary report. This report recommends the establishment of a revolving fund of $2,500,000 for encouraging the moving of small industries into rural communities. This fund might be utilized to cover the expense of moving small industries from the large centers to smaller communities, borrowed from for helping build factory buildings with the provision the money should be repaid.

The government's 50 so-called model communities either building or planned for, include only two or three that have any prospects of attracting industries. The Administration learned what a hornet's nest could be raised over government competition, when it was proposed to establish a federal factory for making post office boxes at Reedsville, W. Va., the community which carried Mrs. Roosevelt's blessing through its eremendously expensive construction period. Industrialists agree with the principle of decentralizing industry, but they believe it is a matter of careful planning to be worked out over a period of some twenty-five years, not an instantaneous cure for depression.

Working along the long-time basis it is possible for established rural communities near raw materials, to attract small factories where operation would be economical. It would then be possible to give employment to some of the local residents and augment this supply of labor with migrations from the cities. The local population would form a back-log of acclimated labor aiding the community in gradually absorbing the immigrating population.

Where the attempt is made to construct these villages entirely with government funds and people them with families unaccustomed to the climate or environment, the drift away from these subsistence homesteads is bound to be large. The whole problem is one which requires more careful consideration than given by those who build rows of new houses with federal funds only to immediately start in to re-construct them before finished. It is a problem which, to be successful, must encompass the human equation, and the matter of sound business sense.

AN ENCOURAGING SIGN

Citizens who have never believed in turning the fate of this nation into the fickle hands of experimentalists will take heart at a recent riddance of Brain Trusters, far more important than the notice it received from the daily press. One of the most radical Brain Trusters lately shown the way out of Washington councils was Jerome Frank, a "smart aleck" young reformer whom Communist Emma Goldman familiarly calls "Jerry".

Jerome Frank was assigned as counsel to George Peek, then head of AAA. Not taking kindly to Frank's radical notions, Peek hired an attorney out of his own pocket, but the friend of Emma Goldman continued to be a thorn in his flesh. Peek finally appealed to Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, calling for Frank's resignation on the threat of his own, but Wallace took the advice of chief Brain Truster Tugwell and obtained the consent of the President to accept the latter. So Jerome Frank stayed on to shock parties in Washington with his radicalism, and to bother his new boss Chester Davis. A short time ago Tugwell was in Floria recovering from an attack of influenza. Out from AAA headquarters went a mimeographed sheet announcing Jerome Frank and other prominent Brain Trusters had been ousted. Tugwell flew back from Florida to protest to the President, but the die had been cast and the best he could do was to secure promises of innocuous jobs for his friends.

Behind all of which is ground for encouragement for American citizens who still believe in established institutions. Washington has been over-run with Brain Trusters of the stamp of Tugwell and Frank for practically two years of this Administration. Business recovery is still a matter that hangs indefinitely in the future, while $4,000,000,000 a year has been spent on emergency expenditures. Meanwhile 5,000,000 families are now on relief rolls and 18 months from now Mr. Roosevelt will be going before the voters.

All of which explains the recent move of the Administration to placate business, even though the big labor organization should become miffed, as it now is. Mr. Roosevelt is a shrewd politician and realizes full well his only chance of re-election lies in a business revival coming during the next 18 months. For Mr. Roosevelt was elected in 1932 by a combination of Democratic votes and the ballots of that class of citizens called the Liberals—that is to say they wish the government to be especially liberal to them. But in the field next year will be two or three Liberals beckoning to that vote, Liberals who will promise as much and probably more than Mr. Roosevelt would promise. Huey Long and his contemporaries, will be in the presidential race strong next year—unless business recovery becomes an established fact.

Mr. Roosevelt is now making friendly gestures toward business. And in these moves to give encouragement to private initiative are to be found the best seeds for confidence which have been strewn since March, 1933. Whether they will sprout and take root, remains to be seen, but it is certain the propaganda mills in Washington will turn out less and less literature during the coming months condemning business.

THAT GOLD DECISION

The Gold Decision of the Supreme Court can doubtless be considered a victory by both the New Dealers and citizens of more conservative minds. President Roosevelt has hailed it as a great victory. Yet the fact remains Justice Hughes in concurring with the more liberal side of his family laid down one safeguard.

Bonds of the United States must be paid in coin of the same value as when issued. Above all else this decision means that the Supreme Court does NOT believe the government through this Administration has any right to break its sacred promise to an individual. Private concerns, having exercised no control over the situation should not be forced to pay a premium upon debts they were in no sense responsible for creating. But the U. S. Government having devalued the dollar, should be held accountable by those lending it money, for the actual value loaned.

Further, it is reasonable to suppose this decision opens the door for an orderly retreat in the future from dollar devaluation schemes of the Roosevelt regime. When a new Administration is sworn into office the good, old American valuation of the dollar can be restored, the country can return to the gold standard and Americans can again have confidence in the honesty of Uncle Sam. For the Supreme Court has pointedly advised the old gentleman in the striped pants, "Don't try to renege on your promises, Sam!"

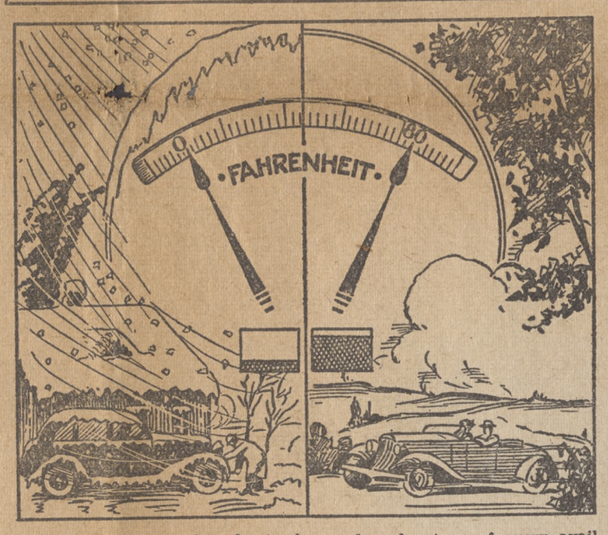
Battery Loses Third of Its Power Between 80° and Zero



MANY motorists can't understand why their batteries fail to render as efficient service in the winter as in the summer.

They fail to realize that at zero their batteries have only one-third of the power they have at a temperature of 80 degrees. Not only does cold weather impose additional strains on batteries, but it imposes these strains at times when the battery actually possesses less power than when the work the battery has to do, according to the larger oil companies.

In view of these facts every driver owes it to his peace of mind to take advantage of every available aid to quick starting. He should use light-bodied, free-flowing winter oils. He should have his service station see to it that his car's transmission and rear end contain winter lubricants. Moreover, he should use the new quick starting motor fuel which is patterned after the government's fighting grade aviation gasoline and which has been designed to facilitate cold weather starting and to promote rapid warm-up. These aids will minimize the strain on his battery and help to make motoring just as easy and pleasant in the cold weather as during the summer months.

Democrats Override Republican Opposition To Extra Gas Tax

Albany — In spite of protests from individuals and organizations and in spite of sustained effort on the part of the Republicans in the Legislature to obtain a public hearing on Governor Lehman's $294,000,000 budget and tax program, his stream-lined steamroller flattened out all opposition within Democratic ranks last week and jammed all the bills through both houses.

In the Senate, Republican Leader George R. Fearon, of Syracuse, led a vigorous attack on the complete apathy of the Democrats to both the interest and the rights of the people. Centering his attack on the new one cent gas tax in particular, Senator Fearon pointed out that it was a tax on the poor motorist to an even greater extent than it was a tax on the wealthy. "Down in Washington they have a saying 'Sock the Rich!'" he declared, "but here in Albany the motto seems to be 'Sock the Poor!' — especially the poor motorist."

In the Assembly, Republican leader Irving M. Ives, of Norwich, summed up the Party's opposition to the tactics employed by the Democrats in trying to jam the budget and tax bills through. Recalling how the Democrats when they were in the minority were constantly pleading for "honesty and being on the level with the people," Assemblyman Ives asked what mysterious things were hidden in the budget that they dare not disclose to the people. "Let's be honest about this thing," he pleaded, "Let's be on the level. If the Budget Bill is sound, who would have anything to fear by proving that it is sound? On the other hand, if there is something mysterious, something dubious, something that ought to be brought into the light of day, hidden away in the Budget, let the people know about it and give us an opportunity to see that it is corrected."

Leading the attack on the gasoline tax bills in the Assembly, Laurens M. Hamilton, of Rockland County, pointed out that motorists already provide over one-third of the revenue collected by the State. "Is it fair to increase by 25% the load which this particular group of taxpayers is paying?" he asked, "It is bad enough to extend again the one cent emergency tax which they have been promised, from year to year, would not be extended the next year, but when you add the insult by doubling it to the injury you have already done them by diverting most of their funds to other uses than highways, you do them a rank injustice."

The failure of the Democratic majority in both houses and of Governor Lehman to give heed to the protest against this tax will have repercussions for many months to come. Not only automobile clubs but individual owners of motor vehicles in every section of the state are aroused by the high handed manner in which this tax was jammed through without even granting a hearing on the tax bills or on the budget.

Albany Goes off the Golden Rule

How little regard the Democratic Party has for citizens living outside the large cities is plainly demonstrated in many bills pending before the Legislature which will probably be passed since the Democrats are in control. The O'Connell Democratic organization of Albany second only to the Tammany Hall organization in its disregard for the interests of people living in smaller communities, has caused to be introduced three bills directly reflecting this attitude. One is a bill by Senator Byrne of Albany exempting from taxation property owned by cities outside of their corporate limits, including public parks, public aviation fields or highways. Albany does not wish to pay a tax on property owned by itself outside of its corporate limits.

In contrast Senator Byrne has introduced a bill providing that lands owned by the State within the City of Albany shall not be exempt from taxation by the City.

A third bill has been introduced by Assemblyman Hayes, also of Albany. It provides that aqueducts, water works, etc. owned by the city outside of its corporate limits, shall be exempt from taxation. This bill particularly desired by New York City since its water system runs through many up-state counties and is of course, taxable by them.

In other words, these Democratic cities do not wish to pay taxes on any property owned by them outside of their city limits, but they wish to tax any property within their city limits owned by anybody else.

Potter Bill Helps Rural Hospitals

Assemblyman Potter, from Suffolk County, has introduced a bill which will be of interest to hospitals throughout the State. The bill is to protect hospitals who have to take care of those injured in automobile accidents, as most rural hospitals do during the summer months. Heretofore such hospitals have had no way of obtaining payment out of damages collected by the injured party, the damage suits usually being tried in the place where the parties live and not where the accident happened. Under the terms of the Potter bill hospitals will have a lien on such damages.

Roosevelt Policy Disregarded by State Democrats

In Washington President Roosevelt is protesting against the proposal made by Democratic members of Congress to pay the prevailing rate of wages on unemployment relief projects. It is his opinion that the wage on such projects should be less than the amount paid by private industry for similar work. He points out that otherwise there will be no incentive for a man working on a public works project to seek private employment.

At Albany a bill providing that the prevailing rate of wages shall be paid on these relief projects in New York State has been signed by the Governor.

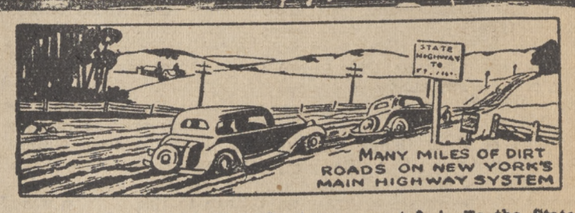
This law will very greatly increase the cost of unemployment relief and will put the relief administration in competition with private industry.

Mortgage Commission Seeks $500,000 for Democrats

The new State Mortgage Commission, created by the Joseph-Pack bill which was opposed by all the Republicans and one Democrat is to start life with a $500,000 nest egg. Assemblyman Pack's bill calling for this appropriation has been reported favorably by the Assembly Ways and Means Committee and will be ready for passage next week. Governor Lehman has not yet announced his nominations for membership on the Commission, but Democrats are rubbing their hands in prospect of receiving such a plum to relieve unemployment in their ranks of jobseekers.

This will be in line with the Farley policy in all the Federal alphabetical agencies. Farley's right-hand man in this state, Vincent Dailey, recently told the City Club in New York City that the employees of the H. O. L. C. in this state, of which he is manager, were taken from the ranks of the Democratic Party."

What has become of the Civil Service idea which Theodore Roosevelt put into practice?



Q. What tests have been made to show that it costs less to drive on a good road than on a poor one? A. Iowa State College made an extensive survey of the cost of operating 300 automobiles an average of 11,000 miles each. It was shown that it costs two cents per mile more to drive a car on the low type road than one of the highest type. In other words, if a vehicle travels 5,000 miles in a year, its owner saves $100 by driving on a high type road.

Q. What individual advancements in road and motor vehicle design have contributed most to the safety of motorists? A. Road widening and four-wheel brakes.

Q. Of the more than $35,000,000 which the motorists of New York State pay in special taxes this year, how much is appropriated to the State and Counties for road improvements? A. To the State, $27,250,000, to the Counties $16,000,000 a total of $43,250,000 or about one-half of the total tax paid.

Q. How many accidents are caused by skidding? A. About 50,000 annually in which 2,000 persons are killed and 60,000 injured. These accidents are caused principally by slippery road surfaces and worn tires.

Q. At what rate of speed is car operation most economical? A. At 30 to 40 miles an hour the average automobile gives the best gasoline mileage and the greatest service from tires.

Q. Who won the first automobile race in the United States and what was his speed? A. A. J. Frank Duryea won the first race in 1895 at Chicago. His average speed was 7½ miles an hour. Today's record is 272 miles an hour.

All but the two cities — Hornell and Corning — will participate. These two centers raise their quota through annual Community Chest appeals.

The dates for the campaign will be March 11 to April 13. Each week during this period a different district will make a concentrated affort to secure quotas in the several communities concerned.

ACCORDING to population statistics, we are gradually approaching the end of our population growth. Before the World War the population of the United States was showing an increase of approximately 1,800,000 annually. However, since then the annual population growth has been steadily falling off, with 1933 showing an increase of only 800,000.

These decreases also account for the accelerated decline in the size of the average American family. Back in 1900 the average family consisted of 4.7 members. In 1910 it had 4.5. And in 1920, 4.3. But in 1930 the figure had dropped to 3.8—a decrease of .5 in ten years, or a rate of decrease more than double that of the early nineteen hundreds.

HUMILITY

"Grant me, O Lord," said a humble soul, "that I may pass unnoticed through the world."

This should be the wish, or rather the aim, of all true devotion.

Small virtues require the praise of man to sustain them, just as little children require encouragement to walk or stand alone.

But true virtue goes quitely through the world, scattering good around, and performing noble deeds, without even the knowledge that what it does is heroic .

Legion Show Nets Over $50

Capacity House Greets all Performances — Oneta Smith, Charles Whitmore, Esther Whitmore, Horton Brothers, Tommy Grandon and Soldiers' Chorus all Favorably Received.

Approximately fifty dollars was cleared by Williams-Greengrass Post, No. 730, American Legion, from the moving picture and vaudeville entertainment in the Avon Theatre Friday and Saturday nights. Packed houses greeted the two performances on Friday night and the three shows on Saturday evening also brought capacity turnouts.

The home-talent vaudeville went over big both evenings. Little Miss Oneta Smith, ten-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Smith, scored a pronounced hit and delighted each audience with her singing and dancing act. Oneta made one of the biggest hits of the show and was encored repeatedly. The Horton Brothers of Woodhull, who ,as Pete and Repeat, are known to radio fans for their work over WESG were greeted by rounds of applause. Charles Whitmore and Esther Whitmore revealed that they are dancers of real talent and Tommy Garndon handled the piano accordian like a genuine artist. Each of the entertainers struck a responsive chord in the andience and the work of each was highly commended.

The Soldiers' Chorus also scored heavily, first with a group of wartime melodies, such as "Smiles," "There's a Long, Long Trail a Winding," etc., and secondly with a series of parodies based lpon the war-time song "Parle Vous." Many of the community's leading citizens, includng Ray S. Brown, Nelson B. Payne, John M. O'Keefe, John W. Russ, Police Judge Daniel J. Colbert, Attorney Charles L. Crane, Matthew Flynn, Maurice Tyson and others were touched upon in a light and humorous vein. This act was also enthusiastically received.

Members of the chorus were Dr. Amos G. Stiker, Dr. H. E. Auringer, William Newman, Robert Mason, Elmer C. Bovee and Harold Rice. Instrumental accompaniment was furnished by Walter Reynolds and Mr. Stewart. Mrs. Chester Arnett, Miss Ruth Seaman and Miss Eleanor Hogue assisted at the piano.

The war film "The First World War" depicting many actual scenes from the great conflict, was also favorably received. The film is from the popular book of the same title, written by Lawrence Stallings.

In a statement to the ADVERTISER, Elmer C. Bovee, commander of the Legion post, expressed his personal appreciation and that of the organization to the public for the generous support which the entertainment received. Mr. Bovee also expressed appreciation for the cooperation of the entertainers and the assistance rendered by the parents of the younger members of the cast. Without these factors, the commander emphasized, the success attained would not have been possible.

HELLO AGAIN! Here's more news of the stars you see and hear . . . HOT FROM HOLLYWOOD IS the news that Toby Wing, Paramount Player, is setting the swimming style with her daring two-piece suit. Well, it looks good to us, Toby . . . FRED ALLEN'S AMATEUR CONTESTS are a new feature in that festival of fun, "Town Hall Tonight," on the NBC network Wednesday nights. You'll laugh your head off at the sorry efforts of some of these amateurs and be surprised at the excellence of others. Some get the hook, others get praise and all get a kidding from Fred. An electric applause-meter determines the winner but the general public can vote too, by telegram or by letter.

* * *

* * *

SOCIALITE GOES HOLLYWOOD! Genie Davis Black, Atlanta Debutante, got a break on her first try. She landed a role in support of Carl Brisson and Mary Ellis in "All the King's Horses." Carl is coaching her in her lines . . . A new afternoon broadcast, The Radio City Matinee, sparkles with as many stars as any of the evening shows. Appearances are planned for such BIG BRAINS OF THE AIRWAVES as Richard Himber, Xavier Cugat, Nathaniel Shilkret and their orchestras, and Richard Crooks, tenor. Presented by the Magic Brain of RCA, this show goes on over the NBC chain at two Wednesday afternoons . . . Well, so long, see you soon with lots more news and pictures.

Issue Second Number of "Farm Research"

January Number of Quarterly Publication From Experiment Station Now Available — Presents Varied Array of Topics.

The second number of the new quarterly publication issued by the State Experiment Station at Geneva under the title of "Farm Research" has been mailed out to names on the Station mailing list. Following the practice established with the first publication of "Farm Research", the Experiment Station will send the paper without charge to anyone interested in recent developments in the many research projects under way at Geneva.

The feature article of the January number has to do with the European starling as an orchard and vineyard pest and describes a trap that has given remarkably good results in Canada where many fruit growers are making use of it. The large number of complaints of damage to fruit by these birds received at the Experiment Station led the Station authorities to look into the matter of control. Other articles of interest chiefly to fruit growers deal with the progress made in controlling the peach moth with parasites, the relation of "shot-hole" borers to winter injury, and the spray residue problem.

The vegetable grower will find two articles on the control of seed and soil borne diseases of particular interest, especially an account of the successful use of zinc oxide as a supplementary soil treatment to prevent "damping-off". There is also a brief account of work under way on the quick freezing of vegetables and a report on the remarkable results obtained with hybrid inbred sweet corn as compared with standard sweet corn varieties.

Other articles of general interest treat of barley smut control, the improvement of native nut trees by selection, the steps to observe in whipping cream to insure success, and a list of recent Station publications. Two feature articles that are running thru numbers of the paper deal with farming along the Mediterranean Sea as observed by Dr. R. S. Breed of the Station Staff and the first of a series by Dr. H. J. Conn on soil bacteria.

Farm Animals Have Big Week

All Phases of Care and Management to Be Discussed at Cornell February 11 to 16.

Because a farm has a good many of the aspects of a menagerie or a zoo, and because almost any farm can have at least a dozen different species of domesticated birds and animals, the animal life of agriculture gets a lot of attention at Cornell's annual farm and home week, February 11 to 16.

More than fifty talks, demonstrations, meetings discussions and tours of inspections, designed to benefit the farmer interested in farm animals, have been arranged by the department of animal husbandry.

The department says that all phases of care, feeding, breeding and handling of farm animals will be discussed. A few of the speakers scheduled during the week include: Monday, February 11, Professor S. J. Brownell tells how to apply the newer principles of breeding dairy cattle; Professor R. B. Hinman and C. D. Schutt demonstrate beef killing; students at the college compete in a livestock judging contest; and Dr. E. S. Harrison tells why rapid growth is important in dairy heifers.

On Tuesday, discussions on hay making and hay crops are held. Professors E. S. Harrison and M. C. Bond tell how to use farm labor effectively throughout the season on live stock farms, and Dr. E. V. McCollum of Johns Hopkins University outlines the newer knowledge of nutrition, with special reference to milk.

On Wednesday, W. H. Pew of Pine Plains speaks on economy in the production of beef. T. M. Scoon of Geneva has charge of discussions on the economical wintering of beef cattle, and K. F. Warner of the U. S. Department of Agriculture tells how to prepare a lamb carcass for home use. Newer cuts of lamb will be on display in the afternoon.

In Judging Contest

Teams from high schools and state agricultural schools hold a livestock judging contest on Thursday. James G. Watson, editor of New England Homestead, speaks on northeastern animal husbandry. Professor M. W. Harper discusses the raising of colts, and Dr. L. A. Maynard demonstrates nutrition experiments on growth, minerals and vitamins.

On Friday, farm and home week visitors may compete in demonstrations and judging contests in beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine. Professor W. T. Crandall tells about the new way to determine the amounts of grain to feed individual cows, and Professor E. S. Savage tells how to feed and exercise dairy bulls.

In addition tours of inspection are held to the sheep and swine barns, where breeding flocks, experimental sheep and lambs, and swine may be seen.

Meetings during the week include the New York state breeders' association and the state dairymen's association on Tuesday; with a joint banquet including the honorary guild of Gopatis on the same day; the fifth annual luncheon of sheep breeders and sheep feeders on Wednesday; and a luncheon for members and friends of the eastern Aberdeen-Angus breeders' association and the New York Hereford breeders' association on Thursday.

Oldsmobile Sets Sales Record

Breaking all records for the month Oldsmobile in January sold 10 times as many cars at retail as in January a year ago, according to an announcement today by D. E. Ralston, vice president and general sales manager.

"Production for this time of year is at the highest point in history," Mr. Ralston said, "and more cars are coming off the line daily than at any other time in Oldsmobile history.

"With the flying start we received in January, with production scheduled this month which will exceed any month since Oldsmobile built its first car, and with the demand for our new cars steadily growing, our 1935 goal appears a certainty.

"Much of the enthusiasm for Oldsmobile has developed as a direct result of our policy to give the motorst every proven feature which adds to the safety, economy, or comfort of motoring."

Rough Riders Add Seventh Straight Victory To Clinch Steuben County Class B Gonfalon

Beacom's Charges Outplay Bradford High School Five —Now Preparing for Inter-County Playoff at Alfred—Jasper Girls Lose to Bradford Lassies.

Jasper High School split a twin bill with Bradford High Friday in the usual manner, the local girls losing and the boys winning. The local girls engaged in a fast contest with the Bradford High girls' team but were beaten as a result of faster forwards on the Bradford team. The game was a battle of forwards thruout, with the guards playing a minor part. The guarding of both teams was below the par set by the forwards and the scoring attempts of both sets of forwards monopolized the attention of the crowd throughout the game.

The Maroon team was somewhat handicapped by the inability of Verdi Stuart, usual high point player, to score a single point. Stuart apparently was far from her usual form and was unable to even come close to the basket during the time she played. However, she was pulled and Murphy, her relief, played a fine game. Two sisters, H. and A. Keklowicz, led the Bradford team with eight and ten points respectively. For Jasper, L. Brabant led with six points and Irene Preston was second wtih four. In the opening period, the Keklowicz sisters got into the clear under the basket to score three baskets in rapid succession. Jasper called time out and reorganized their defense and Murphy scored from the foul line. Bradford collected two more to leave the score 10-2 at the quarter. A. Keklowicz and Rosno scored on long shots and Murphy made a foul to get the second quarter underway. After several minutes of sparring the Keklowicz sisters dropped two more and Irene Preston shot two short shots rapidly. Neither team scored for the remainder of the half.

In the second half both teams guarded more closely and the play veered from one end of the court to the other with extreme rapidity for girls' teams. H. Keklowicz made a short shot for Bradford and L. Brabant entered the game for Jasper. Brabant celebrated her arrival with two long shots that dropped accurately. The third quarter ended with Bradford on the defensive and Jasper pushing the game. In the final period, the Jasper team went on the offensive with the Bradford team protecting their lead and playing the breaks. This quarter was the fastest of the game and much excitement resulted. Bradford sent in their second string forwards and these made two baskets while Brabant added another to her score. The game ended with Bradford still on the defensive and Jasper vainly trying to break through. The final score stood Bradford 24-Jasper 13.

Jasper H. S. 32—Bradford H. S. 19

In the headliner of the evening, the Rough Riders defeated Bradford by the one-sided score of 32-19. However the second and third quarters were of much interest due to the fact that the Bradford team was doing most of the playing and was threatening to take the lead. In the opening period, Jasper monopolized the scoring honors in a big way. J. Schenck got the tip-off and L. Schenck dropped the ball thru. On the next play, Willover cut thru from guard position and scored. The tip-off was passed to L. Schenck for another basket and Bradford called time out for reorganization.

After the resumption of play J. Schenck converted a foul. Walrath, playing left guard, slid in to the foul line and dropped a two-marker. J. Schenck, after shooting successfully for most of the period, dropped a short one to close the period, Jasper 11, Bradford 0. Bradford enjoyed most of the scoring in the second period when Stewart and Switzer were awarded free shots and converted. J. Schenck likewise converted but Vine and Sleve cut fast and scored two baskets to force Jasper to call time out. Walrath dribbled the length of the floor and dropped the final basket of the half.

The third period furnished most of the thrills of the game. Waight replaced Willover at right guard to start and Bradford kept their first string in. L. Schenck dribbled in and Sleve followed suit for Bradford. Swan dropped one from the corner and L. Schenck lifted one in one-handed from the foul line. Sleve likewise dropped one in from the foul line. Morrow, as referee, showered a barrage of free shots at this point. Stewart was awarded two and made one good. On the next play, Stewart was again awarded two and again made one good. L. Schenck got a double-decker from under the basket and Waight cut in to make another. L. Schenck converted a free throw and on the next play collided with Kozel for a double. Each made his shot good and J. E. Schenck dropped one from behind the center line to complete the scoring for the quarter. Bradford called time out with twenty seconds to play and neither side had a chance to complete a play before the whistle blew.

Bradford resorted to long shots in the final quarter and outscored the Rough Riders but the local boys were on the defensive and protected their lead to an advantage. Stewart dropped one from the center line at the opening of the period. Jasper got the next tip-off and held the ball until J. Schenck scored from under the basket. Sleve scored from the center line and Swan dropped one from the corner. Jasper tied Bradford up repeatedly and neither team scored until Sleve dropped a long one just before the final whistle. The Jasper team was far below its usual form and, although they won the game by a decisive margin, showed little of the real initiative that has characterized them in the past. Perhaps they had an off night or knowing that Bradford was a cellar team, were not pointed for this game. At least, an unusual number of fumbles and missed shots were made. The Bradford team was aggressive and pushed the fight into Jasper's back court many times.

Jasper plays its final league game of the season when it journeys to Bradford on March 1st. Having won seven out of seven league games and having lost only one exhibition game (Canisteo) the local boys feel that they will complete the season with an enviable record. They are now in training for the inter-county play-offs at Alfred on March 7th when they will meet the Allegany County Class "C" champions.

Aggies Defeat Knoxville Team

The Addison Aggies rang up another victory on the old gym floor Monday when they defeated the Knoxville town team by the score of 24-17.

The opening quarter was featured by the fast attack of the Aggies, who ran up a nine point lead before Bush dropped one in for Knoxville. The second quarter saw the attack slowed down, the Aggies scoring five points and the visitors two.

In the second half the visitors opened with a barrage of shots and came within striking distance, but in the last quarter the Aggies came back strong to widen the gap.

Heidrick was the leading point getter for the Aggies. Tommy Reagan celebrated his return to the line-up by scoring seven points.

A. H. S. Five Loses To Bath in Upset on Addison Court Friday

Exhibiting the most dismal brand of basket ball seen on the local court this season, the Addison Knights threw down their spears and shields to accept defeat from the innocuous Bath five which had only won a single victory throughout the season. The set-back coming on the same evening Northside beat C. F. A. thus giving Addison a chance at the flag, left the fans disheartened. Only one explanation could be given for this upset, the Addison players were seventy-five per cent off in their shooting and although they bombarded the basket furiously at times, the ball refused to go down through the net. Hickey was the only player on the team able to shoot, and his position at back-guard gave few opportunities to make up for the weak scoring of the other four players.

Bath led Coach Hewson's five through most of the game. Although they scarcely held possession of the ball one-third of the time they deserved to win for when they took the ball they had the ability to toss baskets, and baskets still win basket ball games.

Bath early in the fray leaped to a 9-2 lead with field goals by Gavagan, Lent and Ebsary and a foul shot by Castrilla while Hickey was tossing in the single Addison bucket. Robbins then was fouled and made his shot good while Flynn made one from the field. Lent registered a point from the free throw line to make it 10-5 at the quarter. Robbins staged a lone rally the next period which tied the score momentarily as he tossed two from the field and one from the foul line, bringing the Addison crowd to its feet in the belief their favorites would at last shake off their indifferent style of play. Gavagan and Dascomb quickly took the lead away with a field goal and converted foul. Hickey made a one-pointer that was matched by Lent. Wilson tossed a pretty side shot and Hickey looped a long one. Wilson converted a foul and then Castrilla, who had been well guarded by Wilson, broke through to score his first field basket. The half ended with Addison trailing 16-17.

Flynn and Hickey put the locals ahead in the next stanza with field baskets, but Castrilla, Dascomb and Gavagan each counted double-deckers to snatch the lead away. Hargrave missed a foul and Gavagan made two free throws good. Robbins missed a foul, while the fans, aware of the C. F. A. defeat, were begging the Knights to wake up and play basket ball. Gavagan tossed another. Wilson scored just before the period ended the visitors leading 27-22.

The fans took heart when an Addison rally brought field goals from Hickey, Wilson and Robbins to put the home team one point ahead. But Castrilla sneaked through the defense to score another. Robbins missed a foul. Castrilla scored from the free line. Gavagan made another basket for Bath and the locals wildly pelted the basket with the ball rolling impotently off the edges, yet refusing to go in. Lent was fouled and added another point for Bath. Robbins registered on a free shot. Hargrave made one from the field. The locals were vainly tossing at the basket when the game ended with Bath leading 32-30.

A SIDE-SPLITTING SHOW!

If you are interested in the grief you will entail should you lie to the "little woman" in order to get away for your lodge's convention, see Laurel and Hardy's full-length comedy feature "Sons of the Desert," showing at the Avon Theatre Friday and Saturday.

It's a funny story and the comic pair make it even funnier. As the husbands who have to deceive their wives in order to attend the "Sons of the Desert" conventon in a distant city, Laurel and Hardy keep their audience convulsed as comic situation after comic situaton unfolds to their extreme discomfort in each case.

Stanley's cry-baby tactics and Hardy's disgust at his mate's dumbness have never been better portrayed than in this exceedingly riotous comedy. It will keep the entire family roaring.

Hardy's meeting with his practical-joking brother-in-law, effectively and humorously played by Charley Chase, a star in his own right, creates laugh-provoking situations that add considerable life to the film.

Mae Busch, as Hardy's hard-boiled wife, and Dorothy Christy, as the beautiful, if nagging, spouse of Stanley's, prove perfect foils for the buffoonery of this inimitable duo of comics.

HISTORICAL CHARACTERS IN "HOUSE OF ROTHSCHILD"

George Arliss finds himself in distinguished company in "The House of Rothschild," his first vehicle under his new 20th Century Pictures contract, which comes to the Avon Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday, February 27-28. Benefit for the Blakeslee Sunday School Class of the M. E. Church.

As Nathan Rothschold, he finds himself associated with such famous and colorful historical characters as Napoleon, King George III, the Duke of Wellington, Prince Metternich and Prince Talleyrand.

Wellington is the most in evidence and C. Aubrey Smith's portrayal is said to bring the famous old war lord back to a very hearty life. Alan Mowbray as Metternich and Georges Renavent as Talleyrand also play important roles in the film.

Others prominent in the imposing support cast, which boasts 25 principals and 75 speaking parts, are Boris Karloff,Loretta Young, Robert Young, Helen Westley, Arthur Byron, Reginald Owen, Florence Arliss, Holmes Herbert, Paul Harvey, Ivan Simpson, Noel Madison, Murray Kinnell and Georges Renavent.
